2026 Flame Days – 30th September & 1st October

'Safe, Clean Combustion in Uncertain Times'

This year marks a special time for British Flame – our Platinum Anniversary! For 70 years, British Flame has remained focussed on our mission to provide a platform for knowledge sharing – British Flame Days. In a year of rapid change and high uncertainty, nationally and internationally, this year's Flame Days will provide the opportunity to listen to the latest developments delivering safe, clean combustion.

The 2026 Flame Days programme will include:

- Governmental/regulatory update on energy and combustion priorities
- Emergent safety issues and public perception
- Flare performance measurement, monitoring, modelling, and regulation
- Prospects and performance of low-carbon fuels including hydrogen and ammonia
- Performance and regulation of “drop-in” liquid fuels
- New sources of fossil fuel replacement feedstocks
- AI's impact on combustion research in modelling, design, and training
- Identification of new research priorities

This free event is specifically designed to be interactive, with plenty of time devoted to discussion and the identification of areas of common interest that may become future research themes within British Flame or which are suitable for collaborative research elsewhere.

We will have a conference networking dinner on the first evening – an excellent opportunity to follow through on topics emerging during the day and to establish new contacts. The dinner is sponsored by Greens Combustion. Other sessions may also be sponsored by companies seeking to increase their profile with our membership.

Register today as numbers are limited. You can register by completing the form linked below and returning it to both Emma James (ejames@greenscombustion.com) and to British Flame admin (comms@britishflame.org.uk).
